Mattimeo is a children's fantasy novel by Brian Jacques. It is the third book in the Redwall series, and was published in 1989. The book tells the story of Mattimeo, a young mouse who must overcome his fears and prejudices to save Redwall Abbey from the evil Cluny the Scrouge.

Plot

Mattimeo is a young mouse who lives in Redwall Abbey. He is a shy and timid mouse, and he is often bullied by the other mice. One day, Mattimeo is playing in the forest when he comes across a group of rats. The rats are led by Cluny the Scrouge, a cruel and evil rat. Cluny and his rats are planning to attack Redwall Abbey, and Mattimeo overhears their plans.

Mattimeo knows that he must warn the mice of Redwall Abbey, but he is too afraid to speak up. He is afraid of being laughed at, and he is afraid of being hurt by Cluny and his rats. But Mattimeo knows that he must do something, so he decides to sneak into Redwall Abbey and tell the mice what he has heard.

Mattimeo sneaks into Redwall Abbey and tells the mice about Cluny's plans. The mice are grateful to Mattimeo for his warning, and they prepare for the attack. When Cluny and his rats arrive, the mice are ready for them. The mice fight bravely, and they defeat Cluny and his rats.

Mattimeo is a hero for saving Redwall Abbey. He overcomes his fears and prejudices, and he learns to be a brave and courageous mouse.
